Apps for Aphasia

There are many apps for use on the ipad, iphone, and other electronic devices.

One group, called the Tavistock Trust for Aphasia, has created a directory of software and apps for aphasia. You can find it at:

<http://www.aphasiasoftwarefinder.org/>

We have printed out their list for you here. It is publicly available information. Please check their site for updates. We have also added a few more apps of our own.

A Few Words of Advice

- There are many types of aphasia. So, not all software or apps will be right for you.
- Try the free or trial version of any software first to make sure it works for you.
- Do not spend money on software that you have not tried out. Just because it is for aphasia does not mean it will be right for you.
- If you're not sure, get advice from a speech-language pathologist.
- Any software or app will be best for you if it helps you do something that is important to you.
- If you get frustrated with the software or your device, just take a break.

Voices of Hope for Aphasia offers specialized training on a wide variety of technology tools. Our workshops and webinars are especially designed for people with aphasia and their families. We also offer one-on-one consultations to help you choose the right technology. We go on outings to help you use your new tools.
